

Abstract

A method automatically answers a phone call by counting ring duration. When an incoming call is detected, an elapsed time counter is disabled if it is previously activated. The phone call is automatically detected if a timer counts
5 out a predetermined ring duration and a counter counts out a predetermined calling number. After answering the phone call, the counter is reset to an initial state.